Important patient information:

Your records contain information that is private and specific to yourself, so it is your responsibility to keep your login details safe and secure. Treat your login information as you would your bank details or debit card number. If you suspect your account has been accessed by someone without your consent you must change your password immediately. This can only be done by yourself on patientaccess.com, through the NHS app or whichever platform you have chosen to use to view your records. If you cannot do this right away, we strongly advise that you contact the practice as soon as you are able and ask us to suspend your online access until you can reset your password.

It is your choice whether or not to share information from your records with others. It is also your responsibility to keep your medical information safe and secure when viewing it on your computer or any other device. Do not view it where there are people who might see any information that you do not wish to disclose.

If you print out any information from your record, it is your responsibility to keep it safe and secure.

For more information on keeping your records safe and secure, a helpful leaflet is available. This can be requested from reception or downloaded here: <https://shorturl.at/uADKP>

At the moment you may only be able to see your consultations and documents from the date access was set up. This may change in the future but please note that this is controlled by policy makers at NHS Digital, not by this Practice.

Please be aware that your online records may contain details from past medical history that you may have forgotten about. It may contain information which refers to abnormal test results and you may find some of this information upsetting. Please remember that the records are often written using technical medical terms as this helps clinical professionals to communicate clearly and quickly about your healthcare. If there is anything in your record that you do not understand, please contact the Practice either by phone, in person or in writing.

If you find something in your record that does not relate to you or you find any errors in your medical records, please contact the practice as soon as you are able to, either by phone, in person or in writing.

If you leave the Practice you will need to register again for online access at your new Practice.

The practice will not approve online access if it is deemed this may cause physical and/or mental harm to the patient. Practice management also has the right to remove online access to services for anyone that does not use them responsibly. If this happens and you wish to appeal, this can be done by contacting the practice in the first instance by phone, in person or in writing. You can also contact the Information Commissioners Office online or by phone on 0303 123 1113.

If you have any doubts about registering for online access or if you are worried that you may be put under pressure to reveal details from your medical record to someone else against your will, we would strongly advise that you do not register for this service. If you have any questions relating to this application please contact the practice.
